Sewage From Two City Schools

By Jon Powers

KINGSTON

An unscheduled inspection by the Ulster County Health Department has revealed that the Port Ewen Elementary School and the Hurley Elementary School are each illegally discharging untreated sewage into nearby streams.

A source familiar with the situation has told the Freeman that the sewage disposal units at both schools were shut off by the Kingston Consolidated School District at least two or three years ago, for unknown reasons.

In investigating that report, the Freeman alerted the Health Department to the possibility that sewage disposal units at each school site may be inoperable. A field inspection at the two sites Monday morning confirmed that the effluent was not being properly treated.

John Poer, director of Environmental Sanitation for the Health Department, told the Freeman Monday that a field inspection at the two sites revealed that the chlorinators were "inoperative" and that, as a result, the effluent from each school was not receiving chlorine treatment.

The effluent consists of human wastes, water from drinking fountains, bathrooms and showers, and minimal discharges from the schools' cafeterias.

The Freeman's source said also that the enclosed treatment plants at both the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School in Lake Katrine and the Lake Katrine Elementary School were not in operation.

Power said that Health Department officials will inspect those two sites on Wednesday.

Special

But Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of schools, on learning of the situation Monday, said, "That won't be necessary. I'll have our own people check the situation today, and if the report is true, the problem will be corrected."

When told of the results of the haealth department's inspection at Port Ewen and Hurley Monday, Salzmann said, "I had absolutely no idea that this situation existed. There have been no reports, no indications, that anything like this was taking place. I don't know why it happened or how it happened."

"If it's true that this problem has existed for some time, I'm just sorry that the person who knew about it didn't come forward and tell us," the superintendent added.

Power said that there is no way to tell from Monday's field test how long the chlorinators have been inoperative. The results simply indicated that, at the time the test was made, the systems were not operationg.

According to the health department, the school district could be liable for legal penalties for allegedly failing to conform to state environmental protection laws, but that possibility, at least for the present, seems remote.

Power noted that it is normal procedure for the health department to ask violators to correct whatever sanitary violations exist under their jurisdiction. If the penalties are quickly rectified, legal action is usually postponed. If the violations are repeated, legal action could be sought by the Department of Environmental Conservation.

The sewage treatment systems at the two schools are known as sand filtration systems, using chlorine to treat the waste water. The effluent from the Hurley School is supposed to be treated in a small chlorination building behind the school, and then fed by pipe into a small, unnamed stream that runs alongside the school. The stream empties into the Esopus Creek about 200 yards away.

The same system is in effect at the Port Ewen School. There, the effluent is discharged into Mill Brook, which eventually empties into the Rondout Creek.

The systems at Port Ewen and Hurley are self-contained, and are expected to conform to chlorine residual requirements spelled out in the DEC. The two schools in Lake Katrine also maintain their own separate systems for the present, but are scheduled to be tied in to the Town of Ulster Sewer Improvement Area soon. Under the exisiting systems, however, the effluent is eventually discharged into the Esopus Creek.

President Wants $507 Million For Refugees

'Damn Mad' Over Resistance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today told Republican congressional leaders he is "damn mad" that there is some American resistance to the resettlement of Vietnamese refugees in the United States.

Congressional leaders quoted Ford as saying the concept of the resettlement effort is "morally right."

The President's views were relayed to reporters by Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott following a meeting in the Cabinet Room with GOP leaders.

In a hearing before a House subcommittee on immigration Monday, the touchy issue of what the United States should do with the 150,000 refugees that have fled South Vietnam got a thorough airing. The administration asked Congress to spend $507 million for resettlement of the refugees. The hearing resumes later today.

"It makes me damn mad," Scott quoted the President as saying. "It just burns me up, these great humanitarians. Now, damn it, they just turn their backs."

Ford, using some of the strongest language of his presidency, also told the meeting:

"We didn't do it with the Hungarians, we didn't do it with the Cubans and, damn it, we're not going to do it now."

Scott said that Ford thought it was "shocking and amazing" that there would be opposition to the refugee program and that such criticism would erupt. A UPI survey of congressional offices over the weekend showed that several lawmakers have been deluged with antirefugee mail and telephone calls.

Asked if racism had played a part in some of the antagonism, Scott said, "Some nastiness has erupted —not a great deal, but enough to make you sick. I think it's regrettable."

Scott insisted that he had hardly any antirefugee mail and said that "Congress will soon learn the innate sense of decency and morality of the American people."

Ford also defended the last U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Graham Martin, who has come under severe criticism for allegedly delayiing evacuation until the last possible moment on grounds that the withdrawal would cause panic and endanger Americans.

"The President spoke with great pride that Ambassador Martin, who has a strong personality, successfully conducted" the evacuation program, Scott said.

Scott also said that Ford feels "very strongly" that the United States has a "moral and legal obligation" towards the refugees. Scott said that any thought that the refugees should be sent back home is "callous."

L. Dean Brown, head of the administration's refugee program, briefed the leaders and said that the placement of the refugees will be thinly spread out to lessen the economic impact on certain depressed areas of the country.

Dean told the meeting that the normal immigration into the country was 400,000 persons annually, indicating that some 130,000 refugees would not put a strain on the nation.

Some 20,000 refugees have already arrived in the United States and of that number, 11,000 have been "processed into American society," Brown said. There remains in excess of 100,000 on Guam, Wake Island and still at sea who will eventually be absorbed.

In the refugee hearing Monday, Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., the subcommittee chairman, sought to define the United States role concerning refugees.

"We cannot underestimate the capacity of this country to respond to this serious problem," Eilberg said. "But at the same time we must strive to ensure that the presence of large numbers of refugees does not disadvantage the American people."

Brown told the subcommittee "...the new arrivals should be dispersed as evenly as possible throughout the United States, avoiding, in particular, resettlement in economically hard-press areas." He already had said the same thing in telegrams to state governors.

He said he had asked every embassy in Washington if its country would take some of the refugees, but, "We are very disappointed in the response," Brown said.

Ford's Press Conference Set Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is studying a preconvention strategy plan for the 1976 presidential election campaign, according to his aides.

The plan was mapped out by Ford's top political advisers and submitted to him in recent days. By law, the President is required to set up his own campaign committee until he wins the GOP presidential nomination. Afterwards, he will make his bid for a full term in the presidency with the operational machinery of the Republican National Committee.

Ford scheduled a nationally televised news conference —his first since the surrender of South Vietnam to the Viet Cong — for 7:30 p.m. EDT.

Presidential spokesman Ron Nessen has repeatedly said Ford has every intention of running for President. Presidential aides have urged Ford to get started laying his plans, particularly in view of the cross-country speech-making by former California Gov. Ronald Regan, leader of the GOP's conservative wing and a possible Ford challenger.

Nessen said last week Ford would announce his campaign committee arrangements and manager soon.

Ford is determined to avoid the pitfalls of Richard Nixon's re-election committee, which became involved in the Watergate scandal. He is expected to keep close tabs on any new political committee set up in his behalf.

Ford's schedule today began with breakfast with Republican congressional leaders. His proposed $507 million in assistance to Vietnamese refugees was high on the agenda.

PRESIDENT FORD

County MDs to Meet On Malpractice Crisis

KINGSTON

By Lynn Mulvaney

An emergency meeting of the Ulster County Medical Society has been called for tonight at 8 o'clock at Holiday Inn for the purpose of formulationg contingency plans in the event the New York State Legislature fails to come up with an acceptable malpractice insurance program.

The present insurance carrier for 80 percent of the physicians in the state has announced it plans to cease all underwriting as of July 1.

When the Argonaut Insurance Company of Menlo Park, Calif., first decided to cancel liability coverage for New York State physicians last year, Dr. Edmund Reppert, speaking for the Ulster County Medical Society as its president, indicated that a boycott of all but emergency medical services in Ulster County was being called for by local physicians.

The State Department of Insurance then exerted pressure and the company agreed to fulfill its present contract, which expires June 30.

Five Kingston physicians including Dr. Reppert were among 500 in the state who converged on Albany in January to stress their worry over soaring malpractice rates and to seek legislation to correct it.

Dr. Reppert was accompanied by Dr. Joseph Conrad, representing the Orthopedic Society; Dr. Howard Mass, Surgical Society; Dr. Frederic Holcomb and Dr. Walter Levy.

A crisis of alarming proportions has developed with regard to the cost and availability of health care service here and throughout the state.

Hospitals too are worried that proposed "disaster plans" by doctors for emergency health care only after July 1 could cause severe finincial problems for them and force layoffs of hospital workers.

But, the Hospital Association of New York State nevertheless supports a position of the New York State Medical Society to deny treatment to all but emergency cases after July 1 unless a legislative plan proves acceptable.

Presently a deadlock exists in the State Legislature with the Assembly proposing one course of action and the Senate backing another.

The State Medical Society has endorsed the Senate plan which would enhance a doctor's ability to defend himself in a malpractice action while the Assembly has amended Gov. Hugh Carey's plan removing many proposals favored by physicians.

What course of action the Ulster County Medical Society will take is not known at this time but a press conference will be held Wednesday norning to inform the public of its plans.

Dr. Reppert has warned that increased premiums will mean that young physicians will leave the state, older physicians will chose to retire earlier that anticipated and other physicans will have to pass the increase on to the patient.

The average premium for physicians in the state has risen from $367 i n 1964 to $3,218 in 1974, and incredible leap of 776 percent.

Kingston Gets Development Grant

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today that the federal government has approved a first year grant of $1,359,000 for the city's Community Development Program.

And implicit in that inital allocation is federal approval of programs and projects which have been given priority by city officals but which have been severely critized by some segments of the community.

There was a chance — however slight — that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) would not approve the city's formal applicatoon for the development funds. "It's something you never know when you deal with the federal government," Koenig said today, " but they must have felt that our plans were acceptable."

The city, according to Koenig, will spend most of the $1.3 million on the following projects:

- Improvements to the city's neighborhood and recreational facilities;
- Intensified revitalization programs on the Broadway West and Central Broadway areas of the city;
- Rehabilitation of water trunk lines in the Clinton Avenue — Washington Avenue area.
- Neighborhood beautification and conservation projects, and,
- Establishment of a local housing rehabilitation program.

Each of those projects, said Koenig, must be underway in 1975, and the appropriated money must be spent this year. The mayor added that a project director to administer the daily activities of the Community Development Program will likely be appointed before the end of the week.

The federal government's community development program is a fiveyear plan. Kingston has been earmarked to receive a total of $5,436,000 in yearly installments through 1979. The city must submit a new application, including information on how it intends to spend the money, each year.

Federal approval of the city's application for funds came exactly 40 days after the city filed its application with HUD, said Koenig. Today's annoucement was initially made by the Washington office of Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th).

Legislators to Hear Request for Added Police Protection

KINGSTON — A night watchman for the County Office Building and the Ulster County Computer Center as well as police protection for the old jail will be requested by local radio executive Harry M. Thayer when he addresses the Ulster County Legislature at its 4 p.m. session Thursday in the County Office Building.

Concerned Consumers Chairman Robert Powsner will also speak before the board concerning mass transportation in the county.

Thayer would like to see better protection at the county office building which was the scene of a recent burglary in the Motor Vehicle Office. He also wants protection of the IBM computers at the Manor Avenue Data Processing Center and will ask the legislature what it is doing about preventing vandalism at the old jail on Wall Street.

Seeking a vigorous approach to the question of mass transportation in the county, Powsner urges all county residents to attend the meeting and seek assurance that the legislature is considering an "adequate" transportation system.

Powsner plans to make suggestions for implementing a resolution passed last month which would create a study committee to investigate the count's mass transportation needs.

It is anticipated that Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (RDist. 8) will name seven persons to that committee including two legislators.

At the time the legislation creating the committee was passed, it was noted that the high cost of motor fuel has made travel to and from the county seat in KIngston an expensive item. Also, many segments of citizens have stressed the need for mass transportation and there are federal and state funds available for initial funds for the purchase of buses and the establishment of mass transportation systems.

Panel Putting the Pieces Together in CIA Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Rockefeller Commission apparently is building a case that the White House, acting outside regular channels, was responsible for domestic spying by the Central Intelligence Agency.

That is the picture gained by fitting together the following pieces of the puzzle that are public:

—Defense Secretary James Schlesinger told reporters Monday that as CIA director in 1972 he ordered a review of all CIA activities to determine if there had been illegal spying. "The whole tone was indeed that this was senior officials in the White House," he said, refusing to give specific examples other than the orders by then White House aide John Ehrlichman that the CIA provide spy materials to the White House plumbers. Schlesinger made the comment after testifying to the Rockefeller Commission Monday.

—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who also testified before the commission in closed session Monday, told reporters domestic surveillance was never ordered or authorized by him or the National Security Council —the White House agency with the responsibility for the CIA. He added: "In my period of being in Washington, the National Security Council did not concern itself with domestic intelligence and therefore this is not a subject that could be pursued" with the commission.

—Rockefeller, while not commenting directly on domestic surveillance, said the commission was trying to get the "flow of requests back and forth" between the White House, the NSC and presidential advisors. "Various things happened under various circumstances," Rockefeller said. "This didn't start with (former President) Nixon." He added: "There were many channels from the CIA to the White House."

—Former CIA Director Richard Helms said earlier in congressional testimony he was under direct pressure from President Lyndon Johnson and later from the Nixon administration to undertake domestic surveillance of anti-war groups during the late 1960s.

The statements, taken together, indicate the CIA acted sometimes at the behest of a chief executive and at other times on orders of top White House aides working outside the National Security Council.

The Rockefeller panel, named by President Ford to investigate charges against the spy agency, headed into its final month of work.

$898 Million More Needed For Food Stamp Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says it needs $898 million more this year for food stamp and children's milk programs because the recession has made more persons eligible.

More money will be needed next year. Rising prices have increased the food stamp allotment to about $162 a month, which takes effect with the new fiscal year in July. The Agriculture Department says it will raise the income eligibility ceiling by about 5 percent.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Monday President Ford had asked for $5 million for the milk program and $884.8 million for food stamps in addition to the $3.9 billion already requested for this year, fiscal 1976.

Congressional sources expect food stamps would cost $5.9 billion in fiscal 1977.

Nessen said the request was made necessary because of the recession which has cut family incomes and made more persons eligible for aid. The administration originally estimated 15 million households would get food stamps, he said, but the figure has now risen to 18 million.

Some families at poverty levels get food stamps free. Others can buy stamps depending on net income, with taxes, living costs, transportation and a wide range of other expenses removed. The present income ceiling is $513 a month which will increase to $540 a month with the new eligibility, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

At present, a family of four with an income just under $450 a month pays $122 for $154 worth of stamp allotments. After July 1, they will get coupons good for food worth $162.

Nessen said if Congress had not rejected a Ford proposal to raise the cost of food stamps for some families, Ford would have had to seek $200 million less.

Congress is likely to revise food stamp legislation this summer. Both the House and Senate Agriculture Committees have ordered reviews. The House panel has spent $200,000 for a staff study —to get statistical information it says Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz will not provide.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., introduced a bill Monday to spend almost $1 billion a year on food programs. It would increase monthly food stamp allotments 12 to 15 percent — meaning $192 instead of the present $154.

States would be required to step up efforts to enroll eligible persons. Some experts estimate the number of recipients —19 million —would double if those who are eligible knew they could get stamps.

Cars Will Be Taxed On Miles Per Gallon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., looked over the energy tax bill —a gasoline tax, an auto fuel efficiency tax, a new way to control imports — and said "the big things are behind us."

Too far behind, some members of Ullman's Ways and Means Committee felt. They considered the tax bill too watered down for its original purpose —saving a considerable amount of gasoline and other fuels.

The committee has approved in tentative form the biggest issues. It hopes to finish in the next day or two with the remaining issues —specific quotas on imports, a surtax on industrial use of fuels, a windfall profits tax on oil companies and credits for solar energy use.

The committee got over one big hurdle Monday. It approved, 21 to 13, a proposal by Rep. Joe Waggonner Jr., D-La., to tax cars based on how many miles they get to the gallon of gasoline.

The tax would fall on manufacturers whose domestically produced fleet of autos do not average 18 miles to the gallon or better in 1978 models, 19 or better in 1979 models and 20 or better in 1980 models. If the fleet met those standards, the individual cars would all escape taxation. If the fleet falls below the standard, then those individual models that do not measure up would be taxed.

The amount of the tax would be 2 percent of the wholesale price in 1978 for cars getting 17 to 18 miles a gallon, 3 percent for those getting 16 to 17, 4 percent for 15 to 16, and 5 percent for less than 15 miles to the gallon. The standard would rise by one mile per gallon in 1979 and another mile per gallon in 1980.

Waggonner said the standards are about what the auto industry has already told President Ford and the nation it can meet.

"It is indeed meaningless," Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., told UPI. "A powderpuff. The standards are set so low there really isn't any inhibition against an automaker."

Waggonner agreed the standards had been set at a minimum requirement —he called it "a nudge" —for the industry to meet.

Cable TV Announcer Arrested

NEW CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — Rockland County District Attorney Kenneth Gribetz Monday announced the arrest of a cable television sports announcer on charges of promoting gambling and possession of gambling records.

The announcer, Walter Maggio, 58, of Haverstraw, allegedly ran a numbers operation which state police estimated grossed about $10,000 a week, the DA said.

Gribetz said that "it was interesting" that one of the features of Maggio's show was that he closed with the announcement of the total mutuel handle of the day—the figure used in determining the winning policy number.

A MEMORIAL TO HEART IS A GIFT OF LIFE

On Memorial Day, many people wish to honor deceased relatives and friends in a meaningful way. Perhaps one of the best ways to honor these loved ones is with a Memorial gift to the Heart Association, because it gives hope to the living. Local programs supported by memorial gifts, include blood pressure screenings, risk factor screenings to detect coronary prone individuals, rheumatic fever prevention programs, and courses in cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

When a memorial gift is received, the Heart Association sends an appropriate card on behalf of the donor to the family of the person memorialized. The amount of the contribution is mentioned only in the receipt sent to the donor for tax purposes. Group memorials may be made by personnel of industrial plants, offices, unions and clubs and organizations, and are handled in the same way.

To make a Heart Memorial Gift, send your contribution to your local Chapter along with your name and address, the name of the individual who is to be honored, plus the name and address of the family to which an acknowledgement is to be sent.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE MONTH—MAY 1975

How do you score on this Blood Pressure Quiz?

WHAT IS BLOOD PRESSURE?

It is the force of the blood against the walls of the arteries, the vessels that carry the blood from the heart to all parts of the body . . .

HOW IS BLOOD PRESSURE MEASURED?

A sphygnomanometer is wrapped around your arm. The doctor or nurse pumps air into the cuff and while he slowly releases the air, he uses a stethoscope to listen to the blood flow in your arm.

When he first hears the sound of the heart pumping, he reads the pressure meter. This is the systolic pressure and a normal reading is 100 to 140.

The doctor reads the meter again when the heart is at rest. This is the diastolic pressure and the normal rearing is between 70 and 90. Blood pressure is written 140/80 and spoken as 130 over 74. Both of these readings fall within normal range . . .

DOES NORMAL BLOOD PRESSURE CHANGE?

Yes. It goes up when you are excited or afraid or when you exercise. It goes down when you are relaxed or sleeping . . . .

WHAT HAPPENS IF YOUR BLOOD PRESSURE IS HIGH ALL THE TIME?

Doctors call this hypertension. It must be controlled because it adds to the workload of the heart and arteries. The heart, like any other muscle, when forced to work harder than normal over a long period, becomes enlarged. The very much enlarged heart has a difficult time keeping up with demands made on it . . .

After years of high blood pressure the arteries and arterioles may become hardened, less elastic and scarred. When this happens, they may not be able to deliver as much blood to the organs and extremities as they need . . .

Or a blood clot may lodge in a seriously narrowed artery and deprive some part of the body of its normal blood supply . . .

Specifically the possibility of stroke (blood vessel damage in the brain) is increased if you have high blood pressure . . .

CAN HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE BE CONTROLLED?

Definitely yes. First it must be discovered by periodical checks. Knowing that you have high blood pressure is not enough. The important thing is the ability of heart and arteries to carry: on their work while you have it.

Your doctor will look for signs of damaging your heart, kidneys and the brain. He will examine the tiny blood vessels inside your eyes (the only arteries he can readily see). He will then determine the best kind of treatment, if any, for you. Most people who take precautions can tolerate high blood pressure well for many years . . .

WHAT ARE THE USUAL MEANS OF CONTROLLING BLOOD PRESSURE?

Medications, many developed with Heart Fund research dollars, are available to reduce high blood pressure. Some get rid of fluid and salt. Others open up narrow vessels. And some prevent the blood vessels from constricting and narrowing . . .

To eliminate extra fat in the blood stream and decrease deposit of which eventually clog the arteries, you will be advised to adopt a diet in which amount and type of fat are controlled . . .

You will be asked to reduce if overweight. Losing weight will automatically reduce pressure, it is a general health hazard, and it increases risk of heart attack . . .

Sometimes a sodium-restricted diet is recommended along with fat modification because reduction of sodium may also help lower blood pressure . . .

No one, however, should make major changes in his died without proper medical advice . . .

HOW CAN YOU TELL IF YOU HAVE HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE?

You can't. More than 23 million Americans have it and less than half know it. In many cases it has no symptoms . . .

Sometimes it causes persistent headaches, fatigue or tension but these are common ailments in our culture and may result from many causes . . .

Patients may also suffer from dizziness and shortness of breath resulting from the additional workload imposed on their heart by high blood pressure . . .

So don't try to diagnose or treat symptoms yourself. Have your blood pressure checked. Why not this month? . . .

AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION NURSING WORKSHOP ON SPECIALIZED AREAS OF CORONARY CARE

Another Service Made Possible By Heart Dollars

The Nursing Education Committee of the American Heart Association, Mid-Hudson Chapter, conducted a Workshop on Specialized Areas of Coronary Care on Wednesday, April 30, 1975, at Holiday Inn, Kingston.

Speakers were:
Ali M. Madani, M.D. — "Current Concept of the Management of Pacemaker Patients"
Edmund H. Reppert, M.D. — "Cardiac Drugs"
Palaniappan Arumugham, M.D. — "Pediatric Cardiology, Hypertension in the Young"

The Nursing Education Committee members are:
Mrs. Margaret Carroll, R.N., Chairman Benedictine Hospital, Kingston
Mrs. Joan Bilyou, R.N., Ellenville Community Hospital, Ellenville
Mrs. Marianne Emig, R.N., The Kingston Hospital, Kingston
Mrs. Susan Hopkins, R.N., Memorial Hospital of Greene County, Catskill
Mrs. Nancy McKinley, P.H.N., Ulster County Health Department, Kingston
Mrs. Nancy Romanchuck, R.N., Columbia Memorial Hospital, Hudson

Continuing education credit is being applied for.

Nurses are probably more aware than most of us how many people in a community are affected by these concerns. If you check, you will find dozens of your neighbors who are benefitting from cardiac drugs, or pacemakers. You will undoubtedly also find many who have children with heart disease.

We believe that 20,000 to 25,000 babies are born each year with heart defects. Research is revealing that congenital heart defects are neither so rare nor as hopeless as they once were. Until recently, many children with serious defects were not referred to a Cardiac Center because nothing could be done for them. But as heart research develops new technique of diagnosis and surgery, more new cases are constantly appearing at Cardiac Centers, and many can be helped, with surgery or medication. Other causes of heart disease in children are rheumatic fever and hypertension, both of which are major targets of your heart association, and supported by your heart fund dollars.

Nurses' interest in specialized aspects of coronary care was demonstrated by a record enrollment of almost 200 Registered Nurses, Public Health Nurses and Licensed Practical Nurses, students and BOCES students planning to be medical assistants. Dozens more applied after registration was full and had to be turned away.

From Ulster County 132 attended, 54 of them on the staff of the area hospitals. Seven came from Greene County Memorial Hospital and ten from Columbia Memorial Hospital. Registrations were also accepted from Orange and Dutchess Counties. The general comment from nurses was that they were able to have questions answered that they never had time to ask while on the job, but that would certainly make them better able to care for their patients.

Key for Conductor

Claude Moteux accepts a gold "Key to the City" from Mayor Francis R. Koenig at Monday night's concert in Community Theatre. The key, mounted on a plaque, was presented in recognition of Monteux's "dedication to music and contribution to culture in Kingston and the MidHudson Valley area."

Together for the Finale

Together for Monteux's final concert with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Monday night were (l-r) Luis Garcia-Renart, acting musical director; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Monteux, and Kenneth Fricker, manager. Mr. Monteux will be going on to teach in the school his father founded in Maine, will be composing music and conducting the Haydn Festival Orchestra in three performances in Lincoln Center next year.

The Maestro Bids Farewell . . . Monteux Conducts Final Concert

By Dorothy A. Narel

KINGSTON

Claude Monteux, musical director of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic for the past 15 years, waved good-bye to his audience and to his musicians Monday night at the conclusion of his farewell performance in Community Theatre.

Although Monteux will be directing the orchestra on May 19 in the same theater for a stage production of "HMS Pinafore," Monday night's appearance was his last orchestral concert with the symphony orchestra he has nurtured and brought along from near infancy to today's well structured group.

Monteux is leaving the Hudson Valley Philharmonic by choice. A spokesman for the HVP Society said the conductor wanted to leave three years ago but that the board prevailed upon him to stay.

Monteux, who feels he has done all he can for the local orchestral body, which included their first appearance in New York's Carnegie Hall recently, now wishes to direct his attention to areas of his own interest He will be joining the staff of a music school founded by his father, the world famous Pierre Monteux, in Hancock, Maine. In addition to his teaching duties there, Claude Monteux will be devoting a great deal of energy to composing and working with his Haydn Festival Orchestra, a chamber music group which has three concerts already scheduled in Lincoln Center next year.

In recognition of his dedication to music and his contribution to culture in the Mid-Hudson Valley area and particularly in Kingston, Francis R. Koenig, Mayor of the City of Kingston, presented Monteux with a gold key mounted on a plaque.

In accepting the honor, Monteux said: "I promise not to abuse this privilege." He also said he was sorry to leave and that he would miss the orhcestra members and all the friends he has made here.

To fill the gap created by the absence of Monteux, the HVPS has set up a schedule of nine concerts for the 1975-76 series—beginning October 6. Luis CarciaRenart, first chair cellist with the Philharmonic, will be serving as Acting Music Director and will conduct three of the concerts.

Six guest conductors will be participating in the new series, one of whom will be sleected by the HVP board to fill the post of Acting Director, These guest conductors will include Michael Charry, Abraham Kaplan, Imre Pallo, Allan Miller, and Herbert Grossman. Each conductor will have a "one time chance" to persuade the board of directors that he should be the next musical director of Hudson Valley's growing orchestra.

Monteux conducted a "popular" concert Monday night in that the composers and selections are very well known. The program opened with Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" Overture Fantasie, the composer's first important work. The orchestra played with conviction and moving intensity bringing out the full beauty of the composer's love music which first unfolds in the string section. The orchestra's playing had body and Monteux gave it a strong sense of interpretation.

Tracy Edwards, flautist with the Philharmonic, gave a brilliant solo performance in the Ibert "Concerto for Flute and Orchestra. In three movements, Miss Edwards played with clarity and exceptional quality. Currently in her second year as principal flautist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, she is a graduate of the Uninversity of Kansas and began her professional career with the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra and later played with the American Wind Symphony Orchestra in Pittsburgh. She served on the faculty of the Midwestern Music and Art camp as a flute instructor before moving to New York to pursue her own flute studies. She was a student of Claude Monteux and is now studying with Harold Bennett, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra. In addition to playing with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, Miss Edwards is a member of the Lydn Festival Orchestra.

The second half of the program was devoted to Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C minor, Opus 67." The orchestra had some difficult moments with this great symphony but pulled it together early enough to make it a brilliant conclusion to Monteux's years of service with the group.

Listed as soloists for the new 1975-76 season are Todd Crow, pianist; Geraldine Lamboley, viola; Pinchas Zuckerman, violin; Zara Nelsova, cello; Misha Dichter, pianist; Ruth Laredo, pianist; and Peter Schikele.

'Better Than Winning an Oscar'

By the UPI

"Unbelievable," said Washington Post photographer Matthew Lewis.

"It's better than winning the Oscar," said Roger Ebert, Chicago Sun Times film critic.

"It was a hard way to win the Pulitzer Prize," sighed Jack Jordan, editor of the Xenia, Ohio, Daily Gazette.

The Pulitzer prizes were awarded Monday and the journalists and photographers who won reacted with joy, pride and, in some cases, incredulity.

Lewis' award was the first Pulitzer for color photography.

Ebert, 32, won for his reviews and essays on films.

"No Pulitzer could make me go through it again," said Jordan, whose newspaper won a prize for general local reporting —its coverage of a tornado that killed 32 residents April 3, 1974.

Cartoonist Gary Trudeau, who won a prize for his "Doonesbury" strip, said "I'm flattered, but I never grant interviews and today is no exception."

The Boston Globe won a gold medal for its "massive and balanced coverage of Boston's school desegregation crisis."

Awards were distributed in 11 journalism categories, and the other 10 winners received $1,000 each. They included a reporting team of the Philadelphia Inquirer for national reporting, and a Chicago Tribune team for international reporting.

The citation noted the Globe had been a target of anti-busing demonstrations, paper hijackings, boycotts, bomb threats and actual bullets for its editorial support of school desegregation. It was the Globe's second Pulitzer gold medal for public service. The first was won in 1966.

Dominick Argento in Minneapolis said: "I felt it was my best piece and it's especially thrilling when a group of strangers agrees with you."

He won the music prize for "From the Diary of Virginia Woolf."

In Chicago, two victors agreed their story was one of the most worthwhile news assignments of their lives.

William Mullen and Ovie Carter of the Chicago Tribune, a reporter-photographer team, won prizes for their six-part series on the famines which beset Africa and India.

In Charleston, W. Va., editor John D. Maurice, who won the prize for editorial writing in the explosive Kanawha County's explosive textbook battle, said he felt "overwhelmed."

The Daily Mail defended the books, which protesters had labeled anti-Christian and un-American in an often-violent crusade to remove them from classrooms.

Donald L. Barlett and James B. Steele of the Philadelphia Inquirer were honored for disclosing inequities in the federal taxing system claiming poor and middle income taxpayers were more harshly treated than the rich.

The prize for special local reporting went to the Indianapolis Star for a six-month investigation of police corruption. The Star's reports forced the resignation of the polic e chief and public safety director.

Board Vote Favors Program

By Carl Graham

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Village Board voted Monday night to join the federal flood insurance program.

Property owners within 100 feet on the Rondout Creek or the Hudson River will be eligible to join at their option, although banks will be forbidden to give mortgages on uninsured eligible property that is resold.

Mayor James Gage said that a federal map showing the properties included in the flood plan will be available at the village clerk's office so property owners can study it and suggest changes. The insurance, with a fixed cost of 25 cents per thousand of insured value, is for buildings only and does not cover other possessions, and any new construction in the flood plain would be required to be insured once the program is adopted.

The board will hold a special session Thursday night to complete preliminary work on the 1975-76 budget. A public hearing will be advertised the following week and the hearing held during the week of May 20, with the board holding a special meeting to adopt the budget some time later that week.

State laws require public hearings no later than April 15 and adoption of budgets by April 20, but Gage, who took office April 7, told the State Bureau of Audit and Control that it was impossible for the new adminstration to meet those deadlines and received permission to get a budget "as soon as possible." The new fiscal year begins June 1.

Gage said two meetings had been held with the Department of Transportation (DOT) office in Kingston about conditions on state roads in the village. The village was told that there would be no changes in the snowplowing service, but that the Kingston office would check with the Poughkeepsie regional office to see if it was legal to contract with the village to do plowing on state roads inside village limits.

Yellow stop lines at traffice lights will be repainted by midsummer, Gage was tld and the highway from Washington Avenue to Main Street will be completely repaired within two months. The traffic light at Main and Partition will be repaired, but a replacement cannot be expected within two years, DOT said.

The board heard a letter from Police Chief Gordon Keeley asking that solicitors be required to submit lists of employes so they can be checked for police records. Keeley said he had received numerous complaints about magazine subscription crews. Village Attorney William Brinnier said he was opposed to the idea and Trustee Charles Steele agreed, saying he saw no problem that if anyone had a complaint about solicitors they could report it to police.

The board received letters from William Washburn, who complained about garbage being dumped on Saugerties Paper Corp. property near his Dock Street home, and Charles VanValkenberg, who complained about children playing ball in the street near his home. VanValkenbrg also said several windows in his hme had been broken by air rifles and said that a village patrolman had called him a "raving maniac" when he complained. Gage said he would have the police commissioner investigate.

In other action, the board:

• Heard Gage proclaim Saturday Aug. 9 as Old Timers Day and May . as Senoir Citizen Month in the village.

• Granted Public Works Department employe William Biesele two weeks of his 1975-76 vacation because of a health condition. The vacation eligibility deadline is June 1.

• Heard Gage say he would chaeck the Latham Circle street proposed for village dedication by U-CO Land Company and report at the next board meeting.

• Learned that the Saugerties Library Board had named Mrs. Phyllis Cade to replace Mrs. Elizabeth Layton when she retires June 1. Mrs. Cade has aided Mrs. Layton on a parttime basis in the past.

The Letters

Two Watergate lessons seem not yet to have been fully assimilated at the White House. One is that the public has the right to expect candor in high places. The other is that concealed truth is likely, if not certain, to come out in unexpected ways.

On April 8 Sen. Henry M. Jackson charged that the Nixon administration made "secret agreements" with the Thieu regime in Saigon, and that there was documentary proof of this. Ever since then the White House has been playing variations on the theme that nothing was agreed to secretly which had not been said in public.

The documents which might have clarified the matter were not officially released, however. Three weeks after Jackson said there were such documents, President Ford declined to supply them to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as requested. Mr. Ford pleaded the "confidentiality . . . of diplomatic intercourse" and told the committee chairman, moreover, that he considered the documents in question irrelevant to "our foreign policy in the future."

Only a few hours later, Saigon's former minister of planning, Nguyen Tien Hung, upset the applecart. He placed on the record two letters from President Nixon to South Vietnamese Premier Thieu in which Nixon seemed to promise more in secret than had been publicly stated.

That is a point open to debate. In a joint U.S.-South Vietnamese communique in April 1973, it was agreed that any violations of the ceasefire agreement by Hanoi "would call for appropriately vigorous reactions." The Nixon letters offered assurance "that we will respond with full force should the settlement be violated by North Vietnam," and pledged "swift and severe retaliatory action" by the United States. We regard these promises as stronger than anything publicly said at the time, but it is not an open and shut case.

We do feel that, in view of later congressional action curbing the president's power to commit U.S. Armed forces without the specific approval of Congress, the Nixon letters should have been brought to light. Keeping them in the dark plainly left the Thieu government and the American people —and Congress—with quite different views as to what was expected of us when the Communists began their climactic southward sweep. In this case the requirements of diplomatic "confidentiality" were outweighed by an obligation to clarify the U.S. position. The national interest would have been much better served by timely official release of the Nixon letters.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

The Onesidedness of Detente

By JACK ANDERSON With Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The diplomatic cables have brought reassurances from Moscow that detente is not dead.

The ruling Politburo not only has dropped hard-liner Alexander Shelepin but also has reaffirmed its support of party chairman Leonid Brezhnev's accomodation with the West. In deference to detente, the Kremlin has even refrained from unseemly crowing over the U.S. setbacks in Southeast Asia.

But, while detente has brought a welcome relaxation of tensions, the United States has paid a price that the American people haven't been told about: The detente has produced a technology drain from the United States to the U.S.S.R., which is costing the United States millions of dollars, thousands of jobs and some valuable scientific secrets.

Sen. Henry Jackson, (D.-Wash.) has become so concerned over the economic consequences and potential security danger that he has ordered a full Senate investigation.

Here are the details:

The new Soviet-American scientific cooperation has been largely oneway. Soviet technology lags years behind ours in the most important fields, including agriculture, deep sea exploration, computers, aircraft development and space science.

The Russians have little to offer and much to gain, therefore, from the technological exchange. With the active encouragement of the State and Commerce departments, American firms already have exported, or are planning to export, millions worth of technological information and products.

This has upset U.S. intelligence analysts, who believe the Soviets are trying to exploit American technology primarily for military purposes.

Finished products are sold to the Soviets, who often put them to military use. Several American firms are now bargaining to sell advanced computers and airplanes to Russia. These models are far more sophisticated than anything the Soviets have produced.

U.S. firms also sell licenses, which permit the Russians to build the products themselves. In such cases the Soviets buy everything including the blueprints.

Valuable information is given up even before the contracts are signed. The Soviets dangle lucrative contracts in front of American companies. While the negotiations are in progress, the Russian seek detailed technical information and send engineering teams to inspect the U.S. plants. By the time they leave, as one source put it, "they have stolen the candy store."

American companies have also offered to build and operate plants for the Soviets. Several proposals are now under consideration, for example, to build huge, sophisticated airplane-manufacturing complexes in the Soviet Union.

Scientists, students and technicians are also exchanged. Under one recent program, 38 Russian students came to the United States to study science, engineering, business and computers. In exchange, 38 American students went to Russia and studied history, political science, sociology and literature.

At least half the Russians who come to the United States under the exchange programs report back to the KGB, the experts estimate. The FBI has quietly asked for additional agents to watch them.

Virtually every American male who goes to Moscow for more than two weeks, on the other hand, finds himself with a Russian girl friend who wants to "practice her English," in telligence sources told us. Most of them are believed to be KGB agents, who are quite versatile in English.

As an illustration of the technology drain, the Soviets are taking full advantage of the detente to catch up to the United States in computer science. This is the key, more than any other single factor, to America's overall technological superiority.

The Soviets are at least 10 years behind in computer development. They have produced only one computer of significant capacity, and it would take about 32 of them to equal one top-line American computer.

The Russians would be even further behind were it not for the advanced computers that the West has already begun to sell to the U.S.S.R. One U.S. firm, Control Data Corporation, has signed preliminary agreements to help the Russians build plants for the manufacture of computers and peripheral equipment.

The Russians have taken pains to insure that they will receive considerable technology in the bargain. One agreement, signed on Oct. 19, 1973, calls for the "exchange of scientific and technical information; documentation in production samples, exchange of delegations of specialists and trainees; organization of lectures, symposium and demonstrations of the production samples; (and) joint research, development and testing, exchange of research results and experience."

The Soviets are also eager to catch up to the United States in the production of wide-bodied jet transports. They have one on the drawing board, which is not due off the production line until 1980. Even then, it will be inferior to the American models now flying.

Holding out possible contracts, the Soviets have obtained detailed plans for wide-bodied jets from Boeing, Lockheed and McDonnell-Douglas. A team of some 40 Soviet specialists has also visited the plants of all three companies.

Detente may well be Henry Kissinger's crowning achievment, but it has been a headache for the FBI and CIA.

On the Right

Avoiding the Pain of Taking Stock

By William F. Buckley

It is a time, they are all saying, for reflection. Pause, in the great flux, and ask yourself to take stock. You will generally find that the people who make this recommendation are not going to pause for very long. They have taken stock. And they will save you the pain of taking stock by suggesting what fine minds like theirs decide after they take stock.

By and large, the liberal intelligentsia of the United States, having taken stock, have arrived at the following conclusions:

1. Because South Vietnam was conquered, it follows that no effort should have been made to keep it from being conquered. Because the United States made a huge effort to keep it from being conquered and failed, that is proof that the huge effort should not have been made. It is not under any circumstances proof that the administration of that effort was defective. (It is not known whether the military colleges will include in the curriculum next year a course on how the United States might have won the war in South Vietnam rather than lost it.)

2. The failure by Congress to vote the requested several hundred million dollar humanitarian package isn't any of those things one might suspect. Isn't niggardly, xenophobic, escapist. It has to do with a prudent desire to avoid further involvement in a conflict in which we had no business. Also, it suggests a responsible effort by Congress to avoid ambiguous mandates to the President.

3. The collapse of South Vietnam really means that we are stronger than we were before. Before, we had that terrible lesion in Indochina, which absorbed our attention, our money, and crippled our idealism. Now that we have lost Indochina, we can give our full energies to not losing Turkey, Greece, Portugal, Peru, South Korea, the Phillipines, Indonesia, and Japan.

4. When a little detente proves to be not enough, we should attempt more detente. What we have most to fear is that the other side will repeal detente. Mr. James Reston, who has been meditating fiercely throughout the last few days, concedes that "Mr. Kissinger got very little help from Peking in his efforts to avoid a battle for Saigon, and no help at all from Prince Sihanouk for cooperation in the surrender of Cambodia, but he did get at least limited assistance from the Russians, and it is interesting that Moscow has not allowed the Communist capture of Saigon to interfere with its policy of detente with the United States." Interesting hell. It is fascinating!

5. We must strive to mend our political fences at home. Take Latin America. We have terribly neglected Latin America. We even threatened Venezuela and Ecuador for asking four times the former price for their oil, following the lead of the Persian Gulf States. We should not penalize these countries for asking the world price for their oil, even if the world price is a political price arrived at as a way of influencing American foreign policy. Our neglect of Latin America is best symbolized by our failure to move more speedily towards giving the Panama Canal to Panama, recognizing Cuba, and ostracizing Chile.

6. It is ridiculous to assume that we have lost prestige in the world. It is true that when the last South Vietnamese went down into the waters he was clutching a couple of letters from the President of the United States guaranteeing that we would stand by the South Vietnamese if the treaty of Paris were violated. But those letters a) should never have been written in the first place; b) were a part of a secret diplomacy we are struggling to leave behind us. And anyway, the rest of the world can only think better of us for the manly, brave way in which we resisted any temptation to live up to the word we had given the South Vietnamese people, and their leaders. Besides, the less word we expend in Southeast Asia, the more word we have left over for Europe and the Middle East. Right?

7. In fact, when you come right down to it, things are really in terrific shape.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Let's Not Shut Our Mouths

WASHINGTON — Yes, recriminations. Lots of them.

Lost and dying for 20 years in that jungle and now we're invited not to talk about it. "I ask all Americans to close ranks, to avoid recriminations about the past," the President says, "and to work together on the great tasks that remain to be accomplished." On the same day he asked us to quiet down in the name of higher purpose the Seattle City Council rejected a resolution welcoming the Vietnamese fugitives by a vote of 7 to 1.

In Seattle they must know the task to be accomplished is to inquire about why this came about. They also must understand that it's inquiry, not recrimination, Dr. Kissinger and his associates fear.

In Washington they hope to pass the war off as an act-of-God, as a meteorological event as uncontrollable as an equinoctial hurricane coming out of the Gulf of Mexico to blow down houses across Texas and Mississippi. If they can't convince us those refugees weren't put on the roads by the winds, they warn us not to talk about it be ause "this is the most divisive conflict since the Civil War."

It was years ago. Now there is new national unity in the resentment at the thousands of smarmy fugitives Ford and Kissinger have airfreighted in here — again the fait accompli without Congressional permission — to be a tax on the public purse, or to form another revanchist clique lobbying for a return to another China, another Cuba.

Give them each $4,000 and, provided they spend the money on Chrysler products, we'll grant them citizenship. Save the auto industry, make them into servants. We'll get something out of this war yet. A field marshal mowing the lawn, a Red agent dusting the living room, a black marketeer in the houseboy's white jacket, a Saigon lady of the night for a baby sitter and a keeper of tiger cages to walk the dog. Anyhow, they're here, and whoever they may be and whatever deeds they may have done, we'd best show them such generosity we're still capalbe of.

There aren't so many of them, and to yammer about their being dumped on us might sidetrack us from discovering whether the cause of the war really was a virus infection of our top leaders' central nervous systems or something having more to do with foreign policy. The other night CBS took two and half hours of primely expensive time to tell us.

"We embarked on this Vietnam journey with good intentions, I think, but once upon the path we found ourselves having been misguided. Perhaps that is our big lesson from Vietnam, the necessity for candor," Walter Cronkite told us in a context suggesting it was TV which finally got us properly reguided. No need to recriminate, television'll take care of it next time, but such nonsense. "The networks never stood up, at least for long . . . never gave their reporters honest, enterprising reportorial missions — except into direct combat which was mostly a false story," writes Michael Arlen in The New Yorker (May 5th).

The war would still be going on, with CBS covering it like an apolitical boxing match, had it not been for the protesting people in the streets, the same poeple television competed with the government to ignore and discredit, and who were again aced out of CBS's special the other night so that not one reasoned, critical, Left analysis got on the network's air. NBC and ABC did much better with their end-of-the-war sepcials, but CBS is more interesting for amplifying the official, institutional line, the one we'll teach the kiddies in school.

"We, the American people, the world's most admired democracy, cannot ever again allow ourselves to be misinformed, manipulated and misled," said Cronkite, skipping around who might have tried to do these bad things and why, so that he could crescendo with these words: "Again to quote the President, 'The time has come to look forward to an agenda for the future — to unify, to bind up the nation's wounds and to restore its health and optimistic self-confidence.' "

Back to Sauk Center and give a whack on the drum for unity. A united people, marching together toward future agendas can never again be manipulated, for we are a restored nation whose wounds have been bound and bandaged in Lincolnesque cliche.

Those weren't wounds anyway. Not in the saloons I drink in. That's cherry pie on the faces of those who carried this absurdity down to "Option 4" — do you dig that big boy war talk? — which was what they cal-led sending in the rescue choppers to land on the roofs of Saigon office buildings. We don't need bandages. Paper napkins will do.

Let all leaders, commentators and consulting sages walk clean faced into future agendas: another Agnes De Mille diplomatic dance in Peking; a space walk through NATO; more ego-tripping about the Middle East: Dick Helms and the CIA lads loose and free again in Portugal; and — but for unity's sake don't ask why — many, new, surprising, secret, sacred, honorable, moral, implied, vital, viable, human and humanitarian commitments.

Yes, recriminations. Lots of them.

The Bunt That Clicked

Oriole Bobby Grich dives safely into first base as Yankee second baseman Sandy Alomar is pulled far off bag by Grich's bunt down third base line in eighth inning. Grich advanced to third on series of overthrows. (UPI)

Palmer Regains 'Stopper' Role

Jim Palmer is back in his role as the Baltimore Orioles' "stopper"—and handling it as gracefully as when he was a Cy Young Award winner.

Palmer, the American League's pitcher of the year in 1973, suffered a sore arm last season and finished it with a 7-12 record. He started the 1975 season as a question mark inasmuch as he was the Orioles' natural staff leader— provided he was healthy—to compensate for the New York Yankees' acquisition of Jim Hunter.

Hunter beat Palmer in their first confrontation last Thursday but the Orioles' star reversed the decision Monday night in a 3-1 triumph over Hunter and the Yankees. Significantly, Palmer's triumph ended a string of six consecutive victories which Hunter had scored over the Orioles in regular-season competition.

"I can't pitch much better than that," said Palmer, whose record is now 4-2 compared to Hunter's 2-4. "My control was good to excellent in spots, plus a good breaking ball and changeup."

A pleasant fellow but not above putting people on at times, Palmer then discussed the question about which everyone was thinking—his confrontations with Hunter.

"I suppose in some people's minds there's a natural rivalry between me and Catfish, but I don't look upon pitching against him as anything special," he said. "I don't see where either of us is trying to prove one or the other is the greatest or anything. What I do think is that pitching matchups like this, and team matchups by the way, is what baseball is all about."

The Orioles snapped a 1-1 tie with two runs in the eighth inning when the Yankee infield failed to handle two bunts and Hunter added a wild throw to the circus on the basepaths.

Paul Blair led off the eighth by bunting safely and Bob Grich followed with another bunt single in which Hunter threw wild into right field. Blair scored from second base when rightfielder Bobby Bonds threw wild to the plate and Grich scored on a sacrifice fly by Ken Singleton.

The Yankees scored off Palmer in the second inning on singles by Thurman Munson, Chris Chambliss and Lou Piniella's ground ball. Palmer struck out six in the five-hitter and didn't walk a batter.

The Texas Rangers defeated the California Angels 4-3 and the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-5 in the other American League games. The Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Houston Astros 2-0, the St. Louis Cardinals walloped the Philadelphia Phillies 11-3 and the Montreal Expos shaded the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in National League games.

Rangers 4, Angels 3

Cesar Tovar 's two-run single in the eighth inning capped a three-run eighth inning raly which lifted the Rangers to their ninth win in their last 11 games. Ferguson Jenkins allowed nine hits and four walks but went the distance and raised his record to 4-2.

Red Sox 7, Indians 5

Fred Lynn, Jim Rice and Rico Petrocelli hit consecutive doubles in a four-run fourth inning which enabled the Red Sox to extend their winning streak to three games. Luis Tiant received credit for his third win although Diego Segui and Dick Drago finished up. George Hendrick and John Lowenstein homered for the Indians.

Dodgers 2, Astros 0

Doug Rau pitched a two-hitter against Houston, striking out two and walking two, in raising his record to 4-1 for the Dodgers. Willie Crawford doubled and scored the Dodgers' first run on a sacrifice fly by Ron Cey and Joe Ferguson singled in the other run.

Cardinals 11, Phillies 3

Mike Tyson, in his first start, drove in four runs with a single, triple and homer to lead the Cardinals' 14-hit attack, which tagged Philadelphia's Steve Carlton with his fourth loss against one win. Bob Gibson went seven innings for his first victory with the relief help of Al Hrabosky.

Expos 3, Cubs 2

Pepe Mangual and Larry Parrish homered as the Expos beat the Cubs and presented Dennis Blair with his first win. Ray Burris suffered his first loss after three straight victories.

KHS' John Hunter: Our Best Match Yet

NEWBURGH

"It was our best match so far this year," commented John Hunter Kingston High tennis coach after the 7-2 defeat of a strong Newburgh contingent Monday.

In DCSL tennis, Saugerties dropped a tight 3-2 decision to Ketcham as the match went to the last doubles game.

Dan Ingalasbe and Kevin Boyd Kingston's two top seeded players, both came from behind to race to convincing victories against opponents. Hunter pointed out that Ingalsbe had been looking forward to meeting Newburgh's Bill Boutin ever since Bouton defeated him twice last year.

Ingalsbe, down five games to four, took six in a row for his 10-5 victory. And Boyd, down 7-3 at one point, put together seven straight games for his 10-7 win.

Other scores: Kingston's Brian Decker lost to Tony Sylvester 10-4; Buzz Galyon defeated Joel Finklestein 10-3; Jim Cantino beat Sean Hennessy 10-7, and Joe Argulewicz lost to Wes McWilliams 10-7.

In doubles, Ingalsbe and Boyd teamed up to beat Bouton and Sylvester 10-4, and Kingston's two other teams held off late rallies to win. Galyon and Decker topped Finklestein and Gaspard 10-9., and Rick Smith and Joe Janasiewicz defeated Rick Sandler and Bob McCurdy 10-9.

Kingston travels to Hudson High today for another non-leaguer. It's record is now 6-0-1, with that tie earlier against Hudson.

Jack Welton, Saugerties coach, said "they were all good matches." The Sawyers had a late chance to win, as the first doubles was the last to finish and Saugerties went from down 5-1, to up 8-7, to lose that one 11-9, with Dan Cantone and Chuck Kinney defeating Bob Carpenter and Chuck Rosenberger.

The other doubles has Frank Bundell and Jim Thompson of Saugerties tripping Jim Unger and Scott Manual 10-6.

In singles: Andy Stoll beat Steffen Krachmer of Ketcham 10-8; Daryl Jones lost to Steve Silverstein 10-7; and Ken DelRosario lost to Bob Furlani 10-6.

Saugertise now 2-3 in the DCSL and 5-6 overall, hosts non-league Red Hook today.

Sawyers, Maroons Win

KINGSTON

Both Kingston and Saugerties kept their high school golf win columns ahead of the loss column with relatively easy DCSL victories Monday.

Kingston took Arlington by ten strokes, 166-176, at Dogwood Knolls, while Saugerties at the Sawyerkill CC drove to a 173-187 win against Poughkeepsie.

Maroon coach Floyd McCormick, noting that KHS is now 3-2 and Arlington 4-2 in the league, said his team is "tightening up" and he feels "may go all the way." Kingston is home against Ketcham Wednesday, and McCormick sees Roosevelt as a "tough" team to beat.

Rich Sippel led KHS with a 40, followed by Todd Wonderly at 41, Tom Spiesman at 42, and Bob Allen at 43. Arlington scores: Sol Calta 42, Jim Charland 43, Jim Osborn 45, and Jeff Buley 46.

All four Sawyers shot better rounds than any Poughkeepsie players as Chris Luley led with 42, Steve Van Tassel had 43, Varren Yetter 43, and Tom Brady 45. For Poughkeepsie: John Fine 46, David Grandeau 46, John Hall 47, and Scott Horowitz 48.

Saugerties is now 3-3 in the DCSL and travels to John Jay Wednesday.

Comets: A Tennis First

FALLSBURGH

Fallsburgh High School's tennis team picked up its first Ulster County Athletic League victory Monday by trouncing Red Hook 4-1. Both teams are now 1-3 in the standings.

The Comets swept the three singles and split in the doubles.

(Singles)

Andy Oretsky (F) def. Greg Martin, (8-3; Ira Steingart (F) def. Ted Dewsnat, 9-7; Mike Quait (F) def. Bill Higan, 8-2.

(Doubles)

Greg Hansen -Dan Zaloga (RH) def. Jerry Marcus-Randy Dill, 8-0.

Bob Scheinman-Willis Hauber (F) def. Pat O'Farrell-Harold Davis, 8-5.

A Strong Double Play For Mets' Cleon Jones

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — New York Mets outfielder Cleon Jones was freed on his own recognizance Monday following a preliminary hearing on charges of indecent exposure.

Jones and a 21-year-old woman were arrested Sunday inside a van parked in a traffic lane. Police said the couple was found sleeping nude.

Arraigned with Jones was Sharon Ann Sabol, 21, who gave her address as Johnson City, N.Y. She was charged with indecent exposure and possession of marijuana at her preliminary hearing Monday and held in lieu of $300 bail.

Jones was originally charged with disorderly morals but the charge was reduced to indecent exposure. That charge carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Jones first said he was a "laborer" at Payson Field, the training site of the Mets, but later told officers he was "the superstar of the New York Mets."

Jones has been working out recovering from knee and back injuries. He said he is planning to rejoin the Mets sometime this week.

Primo Subdues Beacon With 80 Pitches

KINGSTOM

Joe Primo made short work of the Beacon High baseball team at Dietz Stadium Monday. The Kingston hurler took an hour and fifteen minutes to throw 80 pitches and set the Bulldogs down, 3-1 with a two-hitter to keep KHS in the DCSL's first place.

In other action, Saugerties rode a four-hitter by Tim Cole to an 8-3 win over Poughkeepsie; Arlington nipped Lourdes, 3-2; Spackenkill decisioned John Jay, 4-1; and the Ketcham-Roosevelt contest was postponed.

With 11 strikeouts and only two walks, Primo stayed in command, but he fell behind in the third inning when a defensive lapse allowed an unearned run to slip across the plate. Beacon scored when, with runners at first and third and two out, catcher Duane Carey's throw on a steal attempt went into the dirt.

Primo slugged a hit off loser Mike Tancredi in the fourth to tie the game and start a three run KHS rally. He drove in Dan Brown who had walked and moved up on Lou Eccleston's hit.

Rich Bell singled home Eccleston, and after Primo was cut down at the plate, Steve Hughes tagged the fourth KHS single of the inning to knock in the third run.

While Cole threw shutout ball for five innings, the Sawyers built a lead on Poughkeepsie. The winners scored two on the third off loser Craig Tayntor then broke it wide open in the fifth with six more runs on six hits.

Tom Crane led the offense with a pair of hits and three RBI's, and Nick Malgieri doubled home another run.

The Sawyers climbed above .500 as Cole fanned eight and walked two.

★★★

All's well that ends well—ask Kevin Jordan. The Kingston High jayvee pitcher, after falling behind by five runs to Poughkeepsie, shut the door on the Pioneers and helped bat the little Maroons to a 10-5 victory that raised the KHS record to 6-3.

Jordan finished with ten strikeouts and no walks, and he collected two hits worth three RBI's including the tying and winning runs in te seven-run seventh.

Jerry Hart knocked in two with his four hits, and Jim Murphy slammed three hits to power the attack.

Decker Is Reinstated

STONE RIDGE

B. Edson Decker, assistant professor at Ulster County Community College, has been reinstated in his position as tennis coach from which he was suspended last Thursday after his team was forced to forfeit last Wednesday a match with Orange County Community College due to illness of several Ulster players.

After meeting on Monday afternoon with the Dean of Students, David Bartlett, and Athletic Director Al. DiBernardo, Decker said, "It's incredible to me that an administrative misunderstanding could lead to such a drastic action as had occurred, but I'm glad the matter has been resolved and that my personal and professional repution has been exonerated. Now the team players and I can get back into action and finish out our season this week."

Mario, Unser Need Work

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Former winners Al Unser and Mario Andretti took shake-down rides in their Indianapolis "500" racers Monday and indicated a lot of work remained to be done before they can qualify for the May 25 classic.

Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., will miss this weekend's time trials altogether. He is committed to race in the Grand Prix at Monte Carlo.

"All I have is two days before I have to leave again," he said. "We have no choice, but we knew that all along. The main thing is to get the car raceworthy."

Regardless of how well Andretti qualifies for the million-dollar Speedway race, cars qualified earlier will start ahead of him.

Andretti, on the pole for the rain-postponed Formula 5000 race at Pocono, Pa., now scheduled for June 1, and Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., are partners on the Vel's Parnelli Jones racing team from California. Both cars are Dan Gurney Eagles, powered by four-cylinder Drake-Offenhauser engines.

Onteora High remained undefeated in UCAL golf Monday, with Rondout winning to keep the pressure on.

The Boiceville boys defeated Coleman 166-173, while Rondout had little difficulty with Fallsburgh, winning 172-184. Coleman, now 4-2-1, and New Paltz, which was dumped by Pine Bush 175-182, are in a third place tie.

At Twaalfskill CC, Onteora's Jeff Burton and Coleman's A. J. Maneen shared medalist honors with 40. Other Indian scores were John Carlson 41, Mike Powers 42, Jon Elwyn 43. For Coleman the balance: Francis O'Donnell 43, Brain Smith 45, Howard Shambo 45.

For Rondout, Bill Bush led with 40, Bill Collins 43, Randy Sagar 42, and Chris Davenport 47. Fallsburgh had Bob Feldman with 43, Bob Elliott 44, Arnold Zeletsky 46, and Chris Naso 51. Rondout is 6-1.

And Pine Bush pulled a slight upset over New Paltz, with Jim Falco medalist at 40, followed hy Pete Marlo 42, Tom Collins 46, and Joe Marino 47. New Paltz' best round was shot by Rich Siegel, a 42, with Gary Siegel 45, Kurt Grosshans 47. and Mark Robertson 48.

Finley Scraps the DR

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley scrapped his year-old designated runner experiment Monday when he placed former world class sprinter Herb Washington on waivers for the purpose of giving him his outright release.

"We hate to give him up, but we have to because, for one thing, the pennant race is a lot tighter this year," Finley said. "The loss of Catfish Hunter (to the New York Yankees through a contract mix-up) actually precipitated it. We've got to have pinch-runners who can steal bases and also do some other things.

"I told Herbie it's possible he might be back with us before the season is over. He might also be back in 1976.

"Herb has done one hell of a job for us. He contributed tremendously to the success of the ball club in 1974."

To fill Washington spot on on the roster, the A's called up pitcher Roger Nelson from their Tucson affiliate in the Pacific Coast League.

Washington, a former track star at Michigan State, was signed to a hefty bonus contract before the start of the 1974 season.

After a slow start, Washington, who did not pick up a bat or take the field on defense all season, went on to steal 29 bases in 45 attempts.

"I think I proved it could be done," Washington said of Finley's experiment. "Look at the American League and the guys on the rosters whose biggest asset is their speed. Last year put the concept of running on people.

"I'm not really upset about it. I would have been really disappointed and disillusioned if I didn't expect it."

"One thing I'll say is that Herbie brought a different dimension to the game," said manager Alvin Dark, who used Washington considerably less this season.

"I began to wonder when they brought in Don Hopkins in the spring," said Washington, who said he will take a fling at professional track. "They said they would go with two runners. I questioned it. Then I said maybe we can.

"But when they got Matt Alexander (last week), there was no way. Not three runners.

"But I still didn't think it would be me when it came to the choice of the three even though Alexander and Hoikins both can play other positions. I thought that because of what I did last year and how I learned that I could be a greater asset this year."

Escape From Injury For Foolish Pleasure

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure slipped while being loaded onto a van after arriving here from Louisville Monday but apparently managed to avoid getting injured.

Avatar and Diabolo, the second and third place finishers, respectively, in last Saturday's Derby, accompanied Foolish Pleasure on the airplane ride from Louisville as the three horses will now prepare for the 100th running of the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico May 17.

"Everything went fine until the plane landed and the horses were transferred to the van," said a visibly disturbed LeRoy Jolley, trainer of John L. Greer's Foolish Pleasure.

The horses, after being unloaded from the plane, were walked across a rain soaked patch of grass to the ramp leading into the van which transferred them from the airport to Pimlico.

Foolish Pleasure, led by Jolley, slipped on the wooden plank and, when he was partially inside the van, slipped again and went down on his two front legs.

Sid Martin, trainer of Frank McMahon's Diabolo, was right behind Foolish Pleasure with his horse. Martin also slipped but the horse remained on his feet.

Arthur A. Seeligson Jr.'s Avatar was not so fortunate, however. He was being led aboard the van by groom Sergio Ortiz, and as he started to move inside the van, he too lost his footing and went down on his front knees.

However, on arrival at the Pimlico Stakes barn, the three horses showed no evidence of the accidents. They were quartered in widely separated stalls, with Foolish Pleasure occupying No. 42, the stall usually reserved for the Kentucky Derby winner.

Coughlin, Kelly Hurl UCAL Shutouts

KINGSTON

The Rondout Valley High School baseball team is learning a painful fact of life—when you're at the top, people go gunning for you.

The Ganders, the defending UCAL champs, just keep running into the aces of their opponents' pitching staffs. Monday it was Kevin Coughlin of Coleman who threw bullets at RVC, and the result was a foru-hitter for Coughlin and an 8-0 setback for Rondout.

With that help, Red Hook Beat Fallsburgh, 6-0 and vaulted past the Ganders into first place in Division II. Liberty downed Highland, 6-2; Wallkill nipped Ellenville, 5-4; while Pine Bush's meeting with Onteora was postponed until Thursday.

Coughlin silenced the Rondout lineup with a dozen strikeouts whle issuing only two walks. His teammates clipped loser Jeff Purcell for the only run necessary in the first inning then turned the game into an easy victory with a 13-hit attack. Joe Schell had a three-for-five day to pace the Statesmen.

Red Hook got a 13-strikeout, one-hitter from Joe Skelly to hand Fallsburgh its sixth straight defeat. Corky Bayer drove in two runs, and John Pease, Ron Coon, Mike Gilfeather and Rick Coon each knocked in one for the Raiders.

John Horn stopped Ellenville with four scoreless innings of relief pitching and became the Wallkill winner when the Panthers broke a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth. Miguel Mercado scored the deciding run after cracking a single off Bob Baranoski. He made second on a wild pitch and race home when a pickoff attempt rolled into centerfield.

Doubles by Bob Lee and Harry Collier and singles by Brian Wicks and Horn had led to four Wallkill runs in the first, but starter Mercado couldn't hold the lead. Baranoski led the comeback with an RBI single and two runs scored himself.

Vermont Scholarships For Copeland, Davis

FALLSBURGH

Fallsburgh High School basketball stars Sam Copeland and Greg Davis recieved full scholarships from the University of Vermont, Comet coach Jim McDermott has announced.

"I'm delighted ," McDermont said. "It's a real good school and I'm sure it's going to be a happy relationship."

Cpoeland and Davis were the "winningest" players in the history of Fallsburgh basketball. The 6-4 Copeland performed in 58 winning efforts while the 5-11 Davis played in 57 Fallsburgh wins.

Copeland was the Ulster County Athletic League's leading scorer and was chosen to the league's all-star team. He also earned a berth on one of the All-State teams selected by the New York State Sports Writers Association.

The University of Vermont recently dropped varsity football and is expected to expand its basketball program. Ohio State is on next season's schedule with Notre Dame listed on the card for the year after. The Cage team is coached by Peter Salzberg.

Uhl and Wood Leaders

KINGSTON

Joe Uhl of Artie's Bar needed only 11 games of the 14-game schedule to score more points (252) and compile the best game average (37.0) than any other player in the YMCA "A" Basketball League.

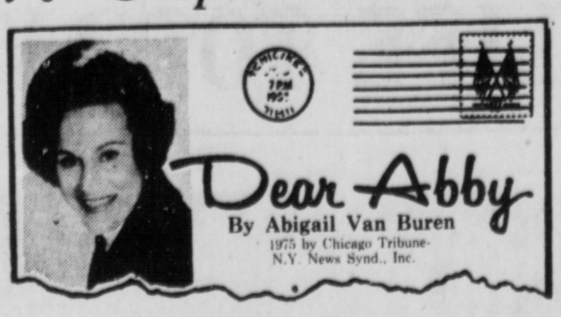
Woman's Gripe: Bed and Bored



DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old, liberated woman. About sex: I've tried it, and I don't like it. I don't dislike it, but it's just not worth all the trouble.

I've been married, and it didn't work out. Sex was never a very important part of my life, but most people think something is "wrong" with a person who doesn't have a strong sex drive. People seem to feel proud if they are sexually overactive (and can "perform" well), and they feel ashamed if they can either take it or leave it.

I am not frigid. On the contrary, I am very affectionate. I can lie in my lover's arms and enjoy the feeling of closeness, but if it doesn't culminate in the sex act, it's all right with me.

Am I weird? Or do you understand what I'm saying?

CONTENT IN COLORADO

DEAR CONTENT: I understand what you're saying, and you're not weird at all. I think you are an intelligent, honest woman who values love above sex. No need to apologize for it.

DEAR ABBY: I just married a beautiful widow after about a year of courtship. She had been a widow for five years, and I've been divorced for nine. She is a very clean person and keeps an immaculate house.

I sold my house and moved into her home. She has a 23-year-old son living with her. He is college-educated and has a good job. He shares the expense of running the house. He's generous, friendly and cooperative.

But he is dirty beyond belief. He has to be told to change his underwear and socks. He has to be reminded to shower, and, believe it or not, he never washes his hands after using the bathroom.

To make matters worse, he loves to help in the kitchen. He cooks, sets the table, makes the salads, puts ice in the water, etc. When I sit down to a meal he has helped with, my stomach turns.

I've spoken to my wife about this. She keeps saying she'll talk to him, but it's been three months, and nothing has changed.

What can I do? I don't want to make an enemy of her son, and I don't want to spoil a good marriage.

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: Take the young man aside and tell him in a kind and loving way that cleanliness is next to godliness. Tell him again, if necessary. And again, and again.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently become engaged to a divorcee. She has no love for her ex-husband, but she adores his mother.

She claims that a woman can divorce her husband, but her in-laws are forever, and she intends to remain friendly with her "mother-in-law" as long as she lives.

This is all right with me, but when I asked her what MY mother would be to her, she said, "She will also be my mother-in-law."

Is this crrect?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: No. Technically, a person is entitled to only one mother-in-law at a time, and even though it's refreshing to hear about a woman who adores her ex-husband's mother so much that nothing can destroy that friendship, YOUR mother will be your wife's mother-in-law. And her former mother-in-law will no longer be related to her.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Open House At Nursery School

Preschoolers and their parents are invited to visit the Temple Emanuel Nursery School on Wednesday, May 7, from 1-3 p.m. The Nursery School will be holding open house to give all prospective children and parents an opportunity to see the facilities and for the children to try them out.

The classroom will be open for the children so they can familiarize themselves with it. The outdoor play equipment will also be available for their use. This will be an opportunity for children who are interested in attending next year to meet their teacher. Someone will be available to answer any questions parents may have. Refreshments will be served. All parents and their children who are interested in the Temple Nursery School are welcome to attend.

The Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School is a cooperative school that is nonsectarian in enrollment. It is the only nursery school in the area with a Jewishly oriented program. In the Nursery School's cooperative set up, parents take turns in assisting the teacher in the classroom as well as serving on committees to help in the administration of the school. Anyone who has questions and is unable to attend the open house should call Suzanne Eichhorn.

Also planned are two side trips to another garden and tulip show in the Albany area.

The next meeting is planned for Wednesday, May 21 at the home of Mrs. Frank Greco. The program will be "Flower Show Planning."

McGovern Wants Open Trade

HAVANA (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern toured Havana today, dining on black beans and rice at an intellectual hangout and calling for an end to the U.S. trade boycott against Cuba.

The South Dakota Democrat arrived in Havana Monday evening on a three-day fact-finding visit and drove right from the airport to a lecture on farm reform.

"I have no powers to lift the embargo, but open trade is in the interest of both countries," McGovern said on arrival at Havana's Jose Marti Airport.

Later in the evening, he dined with a group of Cuban intellectuals at La Bodegita del Medio —a quaint restaurant in the old section of Havana.

Poet Nicolas Guillen, who chatted with McGovern over a typical Cuban meal of black beans, rice, fried bananas and pork, said he liked the senator's "poetic sense of life."

McGovern set out today to visit a mental hospital, a school, a museum and a night-club in Havana. But he has yet to announce a meeting with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Jesus Montane Oropesa, a member of the Cuban Communist party's ruling Central Committee and a guerrilla comrade of Castro during the 1950s, greeted the senator at the airport with a warm handshake.

"This is an educational trip," McGovern said. "I have felt for some time that we need to take a look at our relations. I'm also interested in taking a look at the government and economic systems here."

McGovern, the third U.S. senator to visit the island as part of a thaw in Cuban-American relations, flew to Havana on a charter flight from Homestead Air Force Base in Florida.

The senator was accompanied by his wife, Eleanor; his daugher, Susan; his son-in-law, James Rowan, and more than two dozen reporters.

McGovern denied carrying any message from the Ford administration to Castro but said he conferred with the State Department and Pentagon before making the trip.

McGovern traveled from the airport to the National Agrarian Reform Institute at Nazareno, 25 miles southeast of Havana, to hear two hours of lectures on Cuban agricultural development.

The senator stared at 20 charts on the wall of the lecture room Monday night as a woman interpreter gave him a running translation of the statistics.

Mackey International Airlines decided to take off from Homestead instead of Miami to forestall any violence by anti-Castro militants among the more than 350,000 Cuban exiles living in Florida.

"We moved the plane to Homestead yesterday before anybody in our company knew which aircraft would be used for the trip," an official of the charter airline said. "We thought it was the wisest thing to do."

Last September, Sens. Jacob Javits(R-N.Y.) and Claiborne Pell(D-R.I.) spent three days in Cuba, talking with Castro and touring Havana Province.

McGovern's trip ends Thursday, the same day the Organization of American States (OAS) opens a 10-day meeting in Washington. The diplomats were expected to consider ending the embargo against Cuba.

The OAS has maintained economic and political sanctions against Cuba since July, 1964, but several Latin American nations have resumed diplomatic relations on a bilateral basis.

Nixon Aides Victors In N.C. Civil Suit

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — The constitutional rights of 18 youths excluded from a 1971 address by then President Richard Nixon were not violated by four former White House aides and others, according to a jury decision.

The 18 has sought $1.1 million in damages in a civil suit on grounds they were illegally barred from Nixon's address at Charlotte Coliseum honoring evangelist Billy Graham, a Charlotte native.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated two hours before returning a verdict Monday in favor of the nine defendants, including former Nixon chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, three White House advance men, three Charlotte policemen and two volunteers from the Veterans of Foreign Wars who ushered at the event Oct. 15, 1971.

"I knew that I wouldn't be let down by the United States," said Ernie Helms, a VFW volunteer who said he acted on orders from the White House in evicting several persons from the coliseum.

James D. Monteith, one of Haldeman's attorneys, quoted Haldeman as saying, "That's great," when notified of the verdict at his California home.

"He was very pleased with the verdict," Monteith said. "He was glad that the jury vindicated him although he didn't come down (to testify)."

Haldeman and Nixon aide William Henkel Jr. gave depositions in the case but did not testify. White House advance men Ronald H. Walker and Michael Duval were among the 51 witnesses who testified in the trial.

The White House defendants were added to the suit when testimony in the Senate Watergate hearings disclosed they were involved in approving a screening process for Nixon's visit.

U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan had dropped 17 defendants from the suit Monday before closing arguments began.

George S. Daly Jr., chief attorney for the plaintiffs, rushed from the courtrooom after the verdict was read, but an assistant said it was doubtful an appeal would be filed.

Fair Trade Replaced, Was 1930s Remnant

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state's Fair Trade law, intended as an aid to small merchants, will be revoked because it has been "a needless strain upon the pocketbook of every New Yorker," according to Gov. Hugh L. Carey.

Carey Monday signed a measure repealing the Depression-era legislation, effective Aug. 3. After that date, the "Fair Trade" agreements would fall under anti-trust laws.

Many manufacturers, through contract with distributors, have been able to set the mimimum retail price for which their goods could be sold.

"Particularly in the present inflationary climate, this law permits the imposition of a needless strain upon the pocketbook of every New Yorker," Carey said in signing the measure.

Saying the repeal eliminates "unnatural barriers to competition," Carey warned that the action "is not a license for the big to eliminate the small through unfair competition."

The original law was approved during the Great Depression and was designed to protect the small retailer from going being forced out of business by large chains. It allowed the manufacturer to establish the lowest price at which his product could be sold in the state.

Opponents have been trying to repeal the measure for the past several years, arguing that it blocked free competition and, therefore, hurt consumers by denying them the lowest prices.

In other developments at the Capitol Monday:

• The senate gave its approval the Tuition Assistance Program, which is designed to provide financial aid to both state and private college students.

Republican leaders had contended that the bill was already approved by the senate but Democrats refused to recognize the passage, which occurred during the hotly disputed Regents controversy.

The plan now moves to the assembly. The GOP had claimed the bill was okayed earlier, but Democrats contended the Senate meeting was illegal and that both houses were in joint session to select three new members of the Board of Regents.

• Senate Finance Committee Chairman John Marchi, RStaten Island, said his panel would hold an unexpected public hearing on the nomination of Joan K. Davidson as head of the State Council on the Arts.

Marchi said he was ordering the hearing following reports that some "members were apprehensive about 'politicization' of the council" by the Carey administration.

The council, which handles $34.1 million in local aid for cultural organizations in the state, "should be free from political interference," Marchi said. The hearing will be May 19 in Albany.

• The senate approved a bill that would provide for 50 percent state reimbursement for tuberculosis care. The measure now goes to the assembly for action.

Sen. Tarky J, Lombardi, RSyracuse, said the measure "will reduce the present burden placed upon counties and the city of New York for the care of tuberculosis patients."

Currently, such state reimbursement has a ceiling of $5 per day, while in-patient daily costs average about $100, Lombardi said.

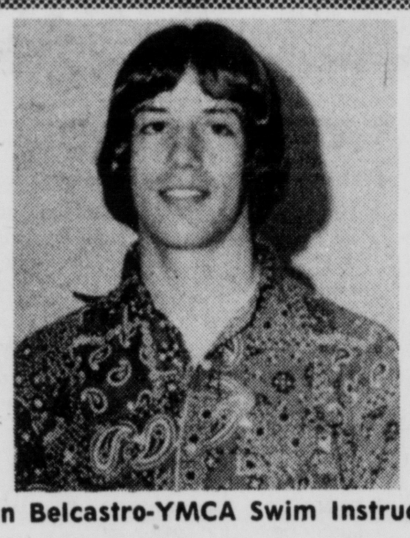
BUILD THE YMCA

The following is a speech given by Kevin Belcastro at the recent YMCA Building Fund Campaign Dinner



Kevin Belcastro-YMCA Swim Instructor

An Unknown American

I am an unknown American. Unknown because my life has not yet been lived, and no one but God can tell what it is to be. I am probably just a typical American boy, but I represent the boyhood of our country. From our ranks must come the manhood of tomorrow.

The YMCA has helped me a great deal in finding myself. The staff there has taught me to use a special talent that I possess; swimming.

Over the few years that I have been a member of the Y, I have seen and met many different types of people from all walks and ways of live. For the young kids who don't have life as well-off as the average child, the YMCA gives to them a sense of responsibility and belonging as well as helping them develop their own talents.

The Y helps us to understand the true American way of life and teaches us the way of democracy of our own individual freedom, of personal integrity and industry. As I said before, the YMCA helps each of us to find ourselves and develop our talents.

I represent the patriotic manhood of tomorrow. I represent the defenders of our homes, our schools and our churches. The boys of today will be the citizens of tomorrow.

The YMCA is a place for the entire family to enjoy. Mom, Dad, sisters and brothers too can all be a part of the Y and its activities. There are many fun activities which you and your children can become involved in.

Yes, the youth of today represents the citizens of tomorrow. We are still unknown Americans, unknown because our lives lie in the unexplored future. Yet we are America's hope for a glorious tomorrow. Are we worth enough to you, so that you are willing to safeguard our lives in every possible way? Will you protect us unknown Americans for the promise of the future which we hold in our hands?

Say "YES" to the YMCA Building Completion Fund!!!

Your Astrograph

For Wednesday, May 7, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be better off today if you don't rely too heavily upon the opinions of others. Your ideas will be good. Others may try to dilute them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Follow your hunches as to how business matters involving you should be handled. Don't let another pressure you to do it his way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't let a minor setback throw you off-track on something you're hoping for. Things will work out very well for you today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Now is the time to play those aces-in-the-hole you've been holding to gain advantages you've wanted careerwise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Most people will see the merits of your ideas. Don't let a dissenter throw cold water on your plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your greatest advantages today will come from joint ventures. If you want to make a profit, prepare to share fairly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You, better than most, understand that harmony is maintained through a willingness to give and take. Be prepared to compromise today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Consider the best ways to increase financial return from your work or career. Today you'll be inspired on how to do this.

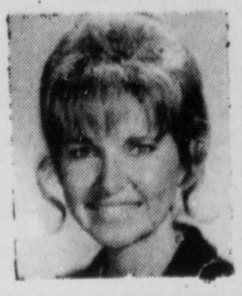
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Lady Luck will do all she can to help you today, if she sees you've sensibly evaluated all the risks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things in general will work out to your satisfaction today, provided you don't make unreasonable demands that can't be met.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Share your plans only with those you feel will fully understand and appreciate them. Avoid those who'll be nonconstructive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're better at handling tricky financial situations later in the day than you are in the early period. Delay them till then.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM



CARRIED AWAY: (Q.) I am 15. My boy friend and I have been going with each other for a year and he has given me a pre-engagement ring. We love each other very much, but we have this problem.

A few times he has gotten carried away and I've slapped him. I tell him that one of these days he will go too far. He says he won't because he wants to marry me as a virgin. Can you give me some advice on how we can stop getting carried away? — Concerned in Connecticut

(A.) Spend more time with other boys and girls in organized activities and less time alone concentrating on each other.

Your school and your church must have lots of events that would not only be fun but would also keep you away from so many dangerous times of too much togetherness.

Try, also to find a better way than slapping to give your boy friend a negative signal. A soft but positive "No," spoken with love, might be more effective, and it would not be hostile.

SPOILED: (Q.) Not to brag or anything, but I am really spoiled to death. I have every single thing I would ever want. I have an older brother and I know most of his friends. They're drinkers and smokers. I drink a little but never enough to get drunk.

My parents care a lot about me, but they don't watch me so I get away with murder and I really don't like it because I'm in the wrong crowd. Can you help me? — 15 in Connecticut

(A.) You don't have to drink even a little and you don't have to run in a crowd that drinks. There are lots of teenagers who don't. Make friends with some of them.

(Write to Jean Adams, in care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Tex. 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Jean Adams cannot send personal answers.)

Thinking After Trick 2 Wasted

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South took a long time to bid his hand. When he finally bid six notrump he felt that he might be missing a grand slam, but that anyone should be happy about collecting the rubber and small slam bonus.

He also took a long time to play the hand. At least he wasted a lot of time worrying about spilt milk after he had chucked the whole thing at trick two.

Trick one was easy. He won in dummy. Then he led a low club and went up with the king after East followed with the five spot. West showed out and there was no way for South to win 12 tricks.

A careful player would have done his thinking before playing to the second trick. He would have seen that four club tricks would have been enough for the slam since there were eight top tricks in the other suits. He would also have seen that he would have no problem if the clubs broke 2-2 or 3-1.

After this preliminary thought he would have led the same low club from dummy. East would have followed with that same five spot and careful South would have put on the eight, not the king. This would be quite likely to cost him a 20-point overtrick, but what is 20 points against about 1,500?

Refugees Adjusting to Our Way of Life

By UPI

Refugees from Vietnam and Cambodia are trying to adjust to their new lives in America, and the government is trying to give assurances the refugees won't disrupt the lives of Americans.

Refugees settled into their American camps Monday, even setting up their own camp government at Camp Pendleton, Calif., and Fort Chaffee, Ark., including a "mayor" to act as spokesman.

Dean L. Brown, coordinator of the refugee program, sent telegrams to the 50 governors saying the refugees will be resettled so as not to become a burden on any community.

He said the United States will have to absorb or divert to other countries about 125,000 South Vietnamese.

The Pentagon said more than 11,000 refugees already had been to new homes in the United States.

One of the evacuees who feels most grateful for America's resettlement program is Pham Thi Muoi, 25. She says she is one of the lucky ones.

Miss Muoi was among the first refugees to finish processing at Ft. Chaffee Monday and flew to Oklahoma City where she will settle.

Unlike most Vietnamese, Miss Muoi speaks fluent English which she learned as an employe of the U.S. embassy in Saigon for seven years.

"I would like to express the Vietnamese feeling," she said. "We want to thank very much the Americans for helping us during hard times. The people are very warm hearted. We are very happy for it. We don't feel that we are refugees now."

Diplomatic sources in Brussels said Secretary of State Henry Kissinger sent a note to the European Common Market last week asking help in resettling refugees.

The sources said Kissinger's note was delivered to Irish Foreign Minister Garret FitzGerald, president of the Common Market's Council of Ministers, and was discussed in Dublin last week by ambassadors of the nine market nations.

At Subic Bay in the Philippines, a Naval spokesman said more than 60,000 Vietnamese refugees have been ferried in and out by the Navy and Air Force in the past two days.

With 8,751 evacuees in the Camp Talega area of Pendleton and 3,323 more due Monday, Brig. Gen. Paul G. Graham gave approval to an "infrastructure" —a government within the military command — headed by one of the best known refugees on the base, Khuong Huu Dieu.

Dieu was said to be planning to set up language "schools" to pass the time and give refugees in American life. There were also plans to start a post office.

A Marine spokesman said the "government" would handle internal problems in coordination with U.S. agencies — Immigration and Health, Education and Welfare —and help with placement.

Nearly all refugees who passed through the Philippines, including former South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, went to Guam for processing into the continental United States.

Registration Ordered by Cong

by U P I

Saigon's ruling Military Management Committee broadcast its first order today —a demand that all military officers and servicemen, policemen and all former government workers register between May 8 and May 31 and turn in all money and weapons.

A Saigon Radio broadcast said the order must be strictly carried out and that "those who do not report by 2400 hours (midnight) May 31 but deliberately hide will be severely punished." In previous Communist terminology in South Vietnam "severe punishment" has been a euphemism for death by execution.

With Saigon radio reports saying the city was returning to normal, the Paris delegation of the Provisional Revolutionary Government hoisted their star studded red and blue Viet Cong flag over the stone mansion which previously housed the South Vietnamese legation.

Helped by a group of volunteers from the Vietnamese colony, they were busy cleaning up the offices of the embassy on Avenue Villiers, off the Arch of Triumph, for a mass ceremony scheduled in front of the building tonight.

The French Communist party, Peace Movement and labor union factions called the rally to demand that France recognize the PRG. PRG officials said their mission has not yet been officially granted consular privileges by France which has not yet decided when to exchange ambassadors with the new Saigon authorities.

The government of Australia, one of the American allies in the long war in Vietnam, announced today it was recognizing the new Communist government in Saigon.

Communist reports Monday said the new Viet Cong rulers had freed political prisoners from "Tiger Cages" on Con Son Island in the South China Sea and that the new regime was preparing a mammoth welcome for them in Saigon.

The military order broadcast over Radio Saigon today and monitored in Bangkok said, "In reporting and registering all must surrender their identification cards, all personal documents, all weapons, files, documents, means, cash boxes and so forth."

The broadcast said the instructions were contained in "Order No. 1" of the Saigon-Gia Dinh Military Management Committee, dated May 5 and signed by Col. Gen. Tran Van Tra as chairman. Saigon is the capital of Gia Dinh Province.

Saigon Radio also broadcast today a communique of the Revolutionary Government's Committee for the Recovery of Military Equipment which demanded preservation and return of all military materials, equipment and vehicles abandoned by the former government.

This order likewise was backed up by threats of "severe punishment." It was issued by Tran Van Kim, chairman of the Central Committee for Recovery of Military Material and Equipment.

"No one is allowed to destroy or burn any military materiel or equipment left behind by the U.S. puppets such as uniforms, shoes, machines, vehicles," the order said.

Radio Hanoi said in a broadcast today, "In the past three days Hanoi continues to live in an exhilarating mood.

"The streets resound with the sounds of firecrackers, drums and songs. At night most parks and crossroads and other public places are filled with cheering crowds who come to watch art performances.

U.S. Base Network Rapidly Shrinking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's worldwide network of military bases is getting smaller. The Greeks on one side of the world and the Thais on the other are giving the United States its walking papers.

The governments of Thailand and the United States announced jointly Monday more than one-quarter of the remaining U.S. forces in Thailand would be removed by June, dropping the total to below 19,500.

Some Thai officials have insisted all the Americans must go within a year, but U.S. officials hope to keep about 10,000 airmen there.

Bases in many other parts of the world could be closed or cut back in the coming months.

The U.S. military is far from closing up shop abroad. It still has about 2,000 installations in 33 foreign countries. Most are single buildings —radar sites or navigational aides — but about 340 are rated as major bases.

The pressures come not only from foreign governments. Many in Congress feel the U.S. military presence abroad is bloated and an unwarrented drain on the U.S. balance of payments.

Of the 2.1 million men and women in uniform, one in four serves abroad.
